About This Workspace

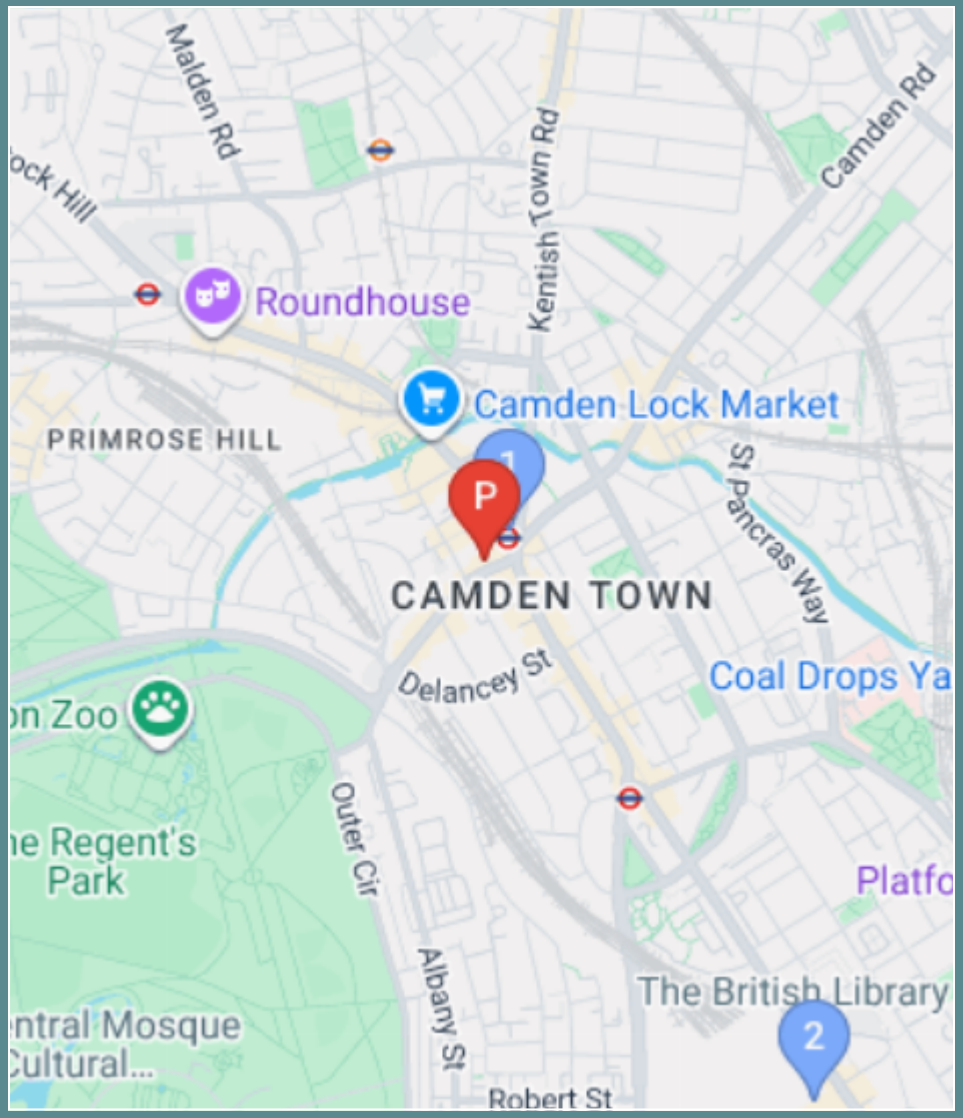

Parkway runs from Camden Town station to the gates of Regent's Park, and this is the top floor of the red-brick building at the station end. Three floors of offices sit over the shops, rebuilt in 1999 behind a set-back glazed entrance, and the third is the one with nobody above it. Meeting rooms are already in; a lift, showers and cycle storage are in the building. Camden Town station is two minutes' walk, Camden Road six, Gail's on the same street, the park ten minutes the other way. Right for a big team that wants north London on purpose.
